

Bighorn Sheep Get 24/7 Reality Show: Ram Cam Live Stream

One of the most common calls to Boulder City staff is, "What time do the Bighorn Sheep graze in Hemenway Park?" Now, residents can watch these majestic animals from anywhere, thanks to the newly launched "Ram Cam" live video camera feed.

The Bighorn Sheep come down from the mountain during various times of day, making it difficult to know when they'll be around. Most days, you can see 40-60 in the park looking for water and grazing on the grass. The camera was placed in the northwest corner of Hemenway Park, located at 401 Ville Dr. Their presence draws tour buses from around the Valley with people hoping to catch a glimpse.

The Ram Cam was first suggested in March 2022 under the leadership of Roger Hall, the City Parks and Recreation Director and Boulder City resident for four decades. City staff from various departments and divisions worked together to plan and install needed technology over the past few months. The video feed is available on the City website 24/7 (except if under maintenance). The project also links the security cameras at Hemenway ballpark to the City's network. The equipment cost just under $6,000, which came from the City's General Fund.

Boulder City Opens Grassy Dog Park

Dog Park Leash Cutting Ceremony: Residents joined BC Chamber President Jill Lagan, Hoover the Dog, City Manager Taylour Tedder and his Executive staff as Mayor Joe Hardy and Council Member Sherri Jorgensen opened the park on August 16.

Boulder City's new enclosed, grassy Dog Park opened to the public on August 16. The space, located in the northeast corner of Veterans Memorial Park, has two yards – one for small dogs, the other for big dogs.

City Manager Taylour Tedder surveyed the community regarding the dog park. Nearly 450 people responded. Their top priorities: Grass, Cleanliness and Maintenance, Shaded Areas and Water Fountains for people and pets.

This park is the culmination of much hard work from Boulder City's Animal Control staff, the Public Works Department, Parks and Recreation Department, Urban Jungle and many others.

These enclosures will give dogs a place to run and have fun, while keeping them safe from cars and other dogs or animals that may not be very friendly. No new grass needed to be used because of this particular location. The project was funded through the American Rescue Plan Act – or ARPA funding.

The park is open every day from sunrise to sunset (closed Tuesdays from 9 a.m.-noon for cleaning). Dogs must be vaccinated and licensed.

October 1-7 is Public Power Week... and we have reason to celebrate!

Like more than 2,000 utilities across the country, we are powered by a community-owned, not-for-profit public power utility. During Public Power Week, we celebrate the benefits of living in a public power community including:

- Low rates
- High reliability
- Dedicated, local service
- Community focus
- Economic development
- Local decision-making

REMINDER: Utility Rate Increases Start this Month

Energy costs on the open market increased by six times for Boulder City from 2018 to 2023. Providing the high level of service our customers have come to expect and ensuring resilient, reliable services, requires that we frequently evaluate our assets and review our costs to make sure we're investing in our critical infrastructure wisely and recouping costs equitably. Our latest assessment revealed the need for funding for these utilities. This will result in about a $3-9 per month increase for our residential customers. These new rates will be reflected in your next bill.

Breaking Down Each Dollar

Every penny of every dollar of your bill is used to ensure reliable, resilient service today and tomorrow.
